CHICANE

Hole 1 is an easy opening par 4. 1 sharp dogleg left. The intelligent approach is played directly at the mound to the right of the green, stunning the shot and letting it roll gently toward the pin. Finding the generous bunker will almost certainly add strokes to the card.

HERO

Fortune follows the brave on this classic par 4. Taking the easier, longer route around the central bunker in the fairway will only bring the greenside bunkers into play and display a narrow strip of the putting surface. However, those brave enough to play for the right-hand strip will not only gain length but will have an unguarded approach into the green.

SCRATCH

This medium-length par 4 is dominated by the tiger claw bunker, which splits the tee shot, at the heart of its fairway. Doglegging right, the ideal position from the tee is on the left to open up the well-guarded green.

THE TURTLE

A short par 3 skirted by water and surrounded by bunkers, hole 4 is all about symmetry. Anything less than a well-struck shot is sure to be rejected by the green.

EUCALYPTUS BARRENS

A long straight par 4, hole 5. Required a straight drive to avoid either the left waste bunker or the fairway bunker on the right. Approaching from the center of the fairway avoid a bunkered green, requiring a straight shot to the center front.

HIDDEN DEPTHS

A breather hole, this par 4 hides a bunker far out to the right. Once the golfer plays through the valley, the entire hole opens up to an inviting green, which is set within a lake.

THE GUARD

Playing down to this par 3 presents a tough challenge thanks in no small part to a dominant Eucalyptus tree that is protecting the green, and if that isn't enough, the green is surrounded on the right by water.

BEELINE

A difficult hole for the short hitter, the drive on the 8th has to carry water and avoid a further lake to the left and a fairway bunker to the right. The heavily shaped green requires a right-to-left shot otherwise the slope might just reject the shot.

LADY LUCK

What this short par 4 lacks in distance it makes up in the difficulty of the approach chip. A tight drive gives way to a lakeside green, the wise player will prefer the left-hand side of the fairway to avoid the carry over water.

BIG BREAK

This strategic hole asks for accuracy from the tee. Try to cut the dogleg too much and you bring the bunkers into play, play the dogleg too wide and the same will happen. If struck well, the player is rewarded with a commanding view of the green for the approach.

RAVINE

This short par 4 plays through a big valley. A shorter hole but by no means easy, it is heavily protect by a greenside bunker. Hole 11 has a tricky green but is still a great birdie opportunity.

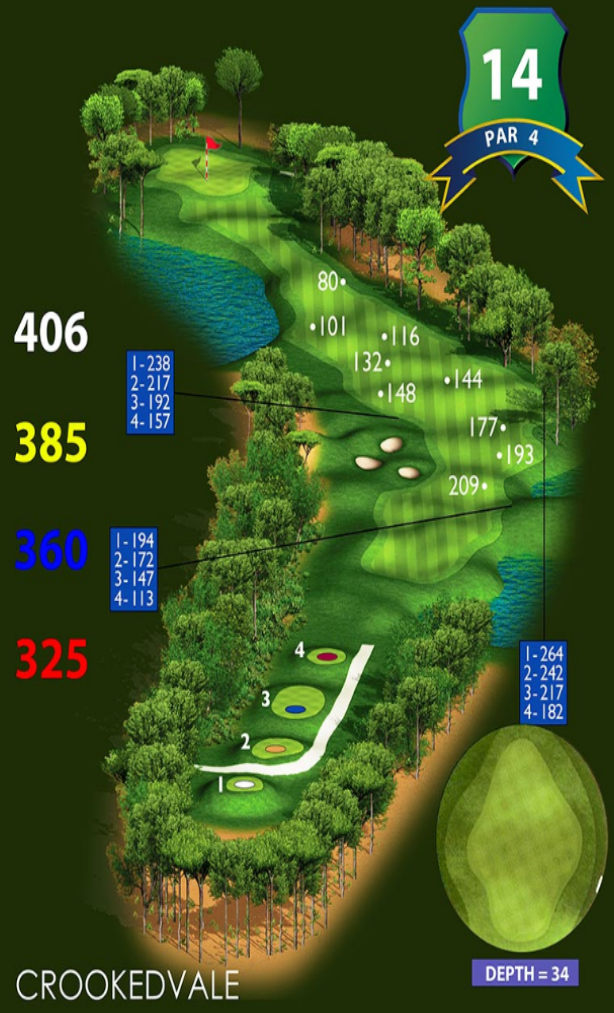

KNIFE EDGE

Take a rest - this medium par 3 is an opportunity for a birdie, but to get there, you have to carry a cavernous bunker. Be wary of the pimple protecting the green's entrance.

ALBATROSS

A medium par 5, this is an energy sapping hole. Shots on the right-hand side run the risk of kicking farther right and finding the bunker. Should the second shot be short, it will then find water and the green is protected by diagonal bunkers, making it reachable in two but only with the very best of shots.

CROOKEDVALE

This dogleg par 4 is partially protected by mounding. A drive as close to the inside of the dogleg as possible gives the best angle into the green but the bunkers on the mound look very dangerous. Don't be put off.

BREATHTAKING

A medium par 4, this is a simple drive but the short shot will be heavily penalized by six strategic fairway bunkers. The danger isn't over yet as the golfer is faced with one of the most difficult greens on the course.

BONANZA

This par 4 is short but its certainly not easy. With trouble on the left of the green, the player must hold the tricky green to realistically hope for a par. The longer hitters will be looking to hit this in one.

CONUNDRUM

A little harder - this tricky par 3 has hidden ground between the fairway bunker and the green, be sure to take plenty of club and stay away from the greenside bunker.

GOLDEN TELERKO

A great finishing hole, this medium strategic par 4 is a straight drive but plays to the greatest feature on the golf course - the island green. With the clubhouse in the background, this hole is difficult to forget and if you drop a shot in the lake, you wont be the first!
